

SAFETY TRAINING SOCIAL DISTANCING

Using fully illustrated workbooks to accomplish safety training for employees can maintain social distancing.

There is nothing wrong with treating safety training as a continuing education course. In fact, when you provide workbooks to student-employees they are more likely to learn better and utilize them as reference material.

You can give the employee a deadline for completing the workbook questions and returning the tear-out tests. No classroom necessary. We have companies who have purchased our workbooks and used them this way for many years.

GraphicSafety.com